The task of nation-building is indeed a complicated one and it requires the participation of every citizen in the country. The task is even more difficult in Malaysia, not only because of the many races that constitute her peoples, but the historical backgrounds and the geographical handicap, poses by South China Sea, which separates her three regions.

Pehin Sri Dr. Abdul Taib and The Emergence of Modern Sarawak

"The whole atmosphere in Sarawak is that of harmony with Bumiputeras and non-Bumiputeras learning side by side with each other. Hopefully, they will continue to work side by side in factories, offices and other work places.

This is the greatest thing that has been happening in this country. Therefore, we must avoid making comments that could enhance the trend toward racisms. If such comments persist, it will be my duty to reply to them in future sessions. Suffice for me to explain that there is no reason for us, whether we are in the government or the opposition, to tread along a racial line. Instead, we must look at the overall benefits of development.

"I have thought a great deal about the need to have racial co-operation and understanding because I want this state to have a kind of teamwork between all races where the more fortunate race may be willing to help the better way how this state can develop, at a much faster rate, than the time when we did not even dare to hope for it"

-Pehin Sri Abdul Taib Mahmud, 1986

"Amanah, berdisiplin, semangat suka memberi serta keinginan berkhidmat untuk orang lain merupakan prasyarat seorang pemimpin yang baik. Mereka yang bercita-cita menjadi pemimpin harus menyemai kualiti-kualiti yang baik sedemikian di dalam diri mereka"

"Saya dapat melihat apa yang kita perlu perjuangkan dan terlibat tidak kiralah anda berbangsa Melayu, Iban, Cina, Bidayuh atau Orang Ulu. Apa yang akan menebal ialah perasaan bangga terhadap Sarawak dan kesedaran bahawa kita berada di negara yang berada dalam keadaan yang baik, bergerak maju ke hadapan dan berada di mata dunia yang dikuasai oleh perdagangan antarabangsa dan kita berada di tengah-tengah gelombang tersebut hasil daripada penglibatan jangkamasa panjang dalam perdagangan.

"I see that we ought to strive for and I see that it will involve all people whether you are Malay, Iban, Chinese, Bidayuh or Orang Ulu. What will emerge will be greater feeling of pride for Sarawak and a conscientiousness that we belong to a nation that is doing very well, developing steadily and taking our place in the world where world trade is the rule and where we find ourselves to be smacked in the middle as a result of our long involvement in trade..."
